

6516208463.txt

The idea that national broadcasters would be precluded from providing local information is ridiculous. The primary issue with nationwide broadcasting from cable companies, satellite TV, satellite radio, etc. is the lose of local information. National broadcasters who wish to provide local information should be encouraged, not blocked. In fact, requiring satellite broadcasters to carry local stations makes a lot more sense.

I love my satellite radio and the programming they provide. More, not less, local programming would be good.

a1